WEDDINGS AT LONESOME VALLEY

CASHIERS, N.C. – Nestled in the majestic Blue Ridge Mountains and framed by verdant forests and meadows encircled by thousand-foot cliffs, Lonesome Valley is the ideal location for couples who are seeking a luxurious and unique wedding destination. After exchanging vows in this magnificent setting, couples and their guests will enjoy exceptional cuisine customized for their event by the award-winning culinary team in the elegant Jennings Barn.

Lonesome Valley hosts a limited number of weddings per year, and Special Events Director Sarah Jennings works closely with each couple's wedding planner to ensure that the special day is flawless. Whether it is an intimate ceremony for a small gathering or a large, upscale celebration for up to 250 guests, couples can be assured that their wedding will be one guests will remember.

Jennings Barn, home of Lonesome Valley's Canyon Kitchen, is located at the front of the 800-acre community and is the centerpiece for receptions, rehearsal dinners and other special events. Executive Chef Adam Hayes and his culinary staff use fresh produce and organic selections from the community garden and the surrounding area of western North Carolina to create extraordinary custom farm-to-table menus.

The natural beauty of the breathtaking locale is complemented by the detailed craftsmanship of the Barn's traditional post and beam architecture; large indoor and outdoor, stacked, stone fireplaces; massive exposed ceiling beams; unique rope basket light fixtures; and multiple barn doors that line the walls and can be opened to create a pavilion-style atmosphere, Lonesome Valley has been honored with The WeddingWire Couples' Choice Award and named "Best Wedding Venue in North America" by BizBash, a leading resource for the event and meeting industry. Many beautiful weddings held at Lonesome Valley have been profiled in bridal magazines and on wedding blogs.

Wedding guests will certainly appreciate the picturesque mountain town of Cashiers and its tranquil setting. Cashiers is located on the highest plateau in the Blue Ridge Mountains, with hundreds of waterfalls, quiet lakes, granite-faced mountains and rich flora and fauna. The charming area is known for its variety of outdoor activities, including hiking, biking, skiing, fly fishing and mountain climbing, along with a variety of notable restaurants and quaint retail stores. Less than 10 miles away is Highlands, a popular, upscale mountain community with a walkable downtown offering boutique shops, fine dining, museums, galleries, theater and live music venues.

Wedding parties also enjoy one of the newest additions to Lonesome Valley, Canyon Spa, providing a welcomed opportunity for friends and families to relax and receive pampering spa treatments. Located in the recently renovated Caretaker's Cottage, Canyon Spa has three treatment rooms, a relaxing waiting area with a fireplace, and men's and women's changing areas. Canyon Spa also offers a full array of natural body and facial treatments, therapies and products, all promoting wellness and relaxation. Many of Canyon Spa's handcrafted, nurturing treatments use farm-fresh ingredients from the gardens of Canyon Kitchen.

About Lonesome Valley

The land that is now Lonesome Valley was purchased by E.H. Jennings in 1895 and has remained in the Jennings family for four generations. Today, Lonesome Valley is a private, 800-acre gated community in Cashiers, N.C. When fully developed, fewer than 180 homes will be built here, with the remainder of the land held in conservation. Lonesome Valley is committed to simplicity, family, and the preservation of nature, with responsible deed restrictions and thoughtful architectural guidelines that ensure the Jennings' legacy will be protected for future generations.
